

Biometric information is collected for a lawful purpose

- Purpose is connected to a lawful activity of your organisation
- Purpose is specific and relevant at the time of collection

Biometric information is necessary to achieve your purpose

- Biometric processing is effective at achieving the lawful purpose
- There is no reasonable alternative way of achieving your lawful purpose as effectively that has less privacy risk

Appropriate privacy safeguards have been implemented

- You have implemented safeguards that are reasonable in the circumstances

Biometric processing is proportionate to the likely impacts

- You have assessed the privacy risk, benefit and cultural impacts on Māori from the biometric processing
- Overall, the benefit outweighs the risk and you have sufficiently addressed any cultural impacts